Note: The analysis below, selections and fair odds above, are all taken from my full card detailed selections and analysis report for Breeders' Cup Friday 11/5 available Here at Equibase or at most online wagering sites such as Xpressbet, TVG and Twinspires. You can also get the full report for Saturday 11/6 as well.

Malavath just won the Group 2 Criterium de Maissons Lafitte, beating five horses, some males. That was a HUGE effort and she showed why European runners have good success in North American races because they have a quick turn of foot many young North American based horses lack. She's improved in each of her three starts after her debut and I do not see this mile as an impediment to winning her second graded stakes in a row.

Hello You won the similar Unibet Rockfel Stakes in her most recent race beating Cachet by a length and one-half. That was a Group 2 race like the one Malavath won and the only difference was it was against females only. With Malavath opening at 8 to 1 and Hello You opening at 10/1 and in my opinion having a lot more probability to win than any of the others, betting both to win appears to be the thing to do in this situation.
